PRODUCT MANAGER &
SOFTWARE ENGINEER

About

My mission is to positively impact the world through code. I strive to continuously improve myself and the lives of others around me. I worked in NYC as an adtech analyst for three years and subsequently explored the world. I have traveled to more than 35 countries and have learned about many different cultures and ways of life. Along the way, I discovered my passion for programming and decided to attend a software engineering bootcamp. After the bootcamp, I became a product manager in NYC. I led a team of developers and worked with them daily, which reignited my passion for coding.
